RUSSE FAMILY

OF ANDOVER.

John (1) Russe and wife, Margaret, appear first, according to my notes, in 1645, when they come from Dover. Savage thinks that they were in Newbury, 1635, and had a son, probably John (2), born 1640. Probably that was the son, John, born June 24, 1641, called 19 in 1661, in a deposition in a Bradstreet suit at Essex Sessions. Other children found were: Mary, (2), b. Feb. 16, 1642 and a Sarah, who was 17 in 1661, so born 1644. Margaret (2), in vol. 6, page 132, Essex Sessions, is called 21 and 22 in depositions, born probably before <sup>the</sup> Savage records were begun.

Mass. Archives, 1645, has the petition of John (1) Russe, to conduct a ferry. John died in 1692, at 80, so was born 1612. Margaret, called "Goodwife Russe", died 1689.

John (2) married <sup>Aug. 28, 1663,</sup> Debora Osgood, born 1640, daughter of Christopher Osgood of Newbury and his wife, Margaret Fowler, and sister of Capt. Christopher (2) Osgood of Andover. He was a miller. He and Debora came from North Church over to South Parish in 1711. The records do not give his death nor a probate, as he deeded his estate, most likely, to children.

Mary (2) married Andrew Foster of Andover, of a Scotch line here, and was head of a great clan.

I do not yet find the fate of Margaret or Sarah but think Sarah may have been the 3rd wife of Capt. Christopher Osgood, as he had a 3rd, named Sarah, who lived only a short time.

After John's (2) father-in-law, Christopher Osgood, Sr., died, the widow Margery (Fowler) married 2nd., Thomas Rowell, who was a genius for setting up mills. He came to Andover, bringing all the family connections with him, and I suppose that was the reason John Russe came here. At any rate, the Wilsons, Lovejoys, who were in-laws, squatted around the present Wilson's Corner and along Elm Street toward the Square and down High street. They <sup>-the Russes-</sup> owned also, the site of the Marland Mills for many years, until after Wm. (4) Russe left Andover.

The Osgoods went farther down the Shawshin to Frye Village and the first fulling mill was set up near the fall toward the Shawshin on the east side of the street near Village Hall (Hussey's). The brook had a seine in it, and was then called Rowell's Folly.

John Russe settled up above Marland's Mills but owned or ran a gristmill on the Shawshin, near the present Abbott Village- as the Abbotts later bought the rights from Russe. Where Peter Smith lives, was the site of the oldest Russe homestead.

Some of this land was the original Chandler grant. Thomas (2) Chandler owned the iron works here, but his children sold extensively to Russe in the 2nd and 3rd generations. So, from West Parish Church on the West to the bounds of North Parish on the East, along the Shawshin from Abbott Village to below Frye Village, the families of Russe, Lovejoy, Osgood and Wilson were settled.

John (2) Russe, therefore turned miller. He and Deborah, whom he married here in Andover, had:-

Mary (3), b. 1667, June 12. ( Was she the Mary Russe of Plymouth Colony scandal, who <sup>age 16,</sup> ran away with Jonathan Singletary of Haverhill, a married man? Both were whipped and she was sent home. He fled to Bloomfield, N.J. and was joined there later by his family after they <sup>sold</sup> the property in Haverhill. (He changed his name, in New Jersey, to Dunham.) Mary had an illegitimate child, <sup>Mary, b.</sup> in 1688, recorded to Nicholas Butler. She, Mary (3), married John Stone, Nov. 14, 1690. He was son of Hugh Stone and wife Hannah Foster. They moved away, perhaps to Beverly, after birth of 4 ch: Thomas, 1691; Debora, 1693; John, 1694; Joseph, 1695.

Hezekiah (3)/<sup>John (2-1)</sup>Russe and wife, Debora Wilson, had a daughter, Debora, (4), born 1711. bapt. June 22, 1712. Hez. Russe confessed some sin, not specified <sup>church</sup> in/records, and this caused the delay in the baptism of the child. On June 15 he said that he was to move away, and they received the child and voted to try him a little longer. Debora (4) probably came back here and at 17, married Philip Fowler.

Joseph (3) Russe ( John (2-1) and his wife, Priscilla Mocar had a son, Joseph (4), b. 1710, before they moved away to Framingham.

-- Debora (5) Russe who married the Indian, Peter Bridges, about 1765, had daughter Eunice, who took her mother's surname and grew up here in the family of Eben. Rand. She married Prince Ames, Nov. 24, 1784. He died 1816. He, according to Nehemiah Abbott or Abiel, was the Negro servant of Capt. Tim Ames of Groton, and went through the Revolution with his master, and was with him at Bunker Hill. Prince was probably of Ames stock on the and had also Indian blood, White side, and was brought up in the family of Nathan Ames of Lexington or Groton. ( Nathan Ames left Andover 1755 and I wonder if he had some trouble of this kind that caused the move.

Prince Ames moved to Bennington, 1777, though he enlisted here for 3 ~~years~~' service, in that year. He probably had begun to learn his trade as blacksmith then. He must have been considerably older than Eunice. Old Mrs. Boynton, who was an Ames, knew Prince well. He was very dark, tall and very smart. Henry Boynton used to see Eunice Ames when she came to Andover, and was much in awe of the stately old lady, as he was a small boy of 10. Said that she was very dark skinned. Eunice died in Boston, at 97. They had:- Peter, <sup>(7)</sup> b. April 22, 1785; named for her father; m. Patty Clark of Newburyport 1810; had 5 ch. SANDERS FAMILY

Essex County Records:-

1762:- Joshua Wardwell of Andover, innholder, and wife Mary, and Ruth Sanders, single, all of ANDOVER, for 70 Lbs. from Isaac Merrill convey the rest of the SANDERS estate.

Mary Wardwell was the widow of Joseph Foster and was the daughter of James and Ruth Sanders of Amesbury.

Ziba Sanders, son of Timothy Sanders, who died 1834, built house down by River street in Ballardvale. in 1838. Isaac Putnam built near it.

We had a Sanders here in the home occupied by Seth Chase in 1860, and owned by heirs of Richard Sanders, who died April 1862. Richard came from Cambridge to Andover in 1832. He was an Englishman, and was 88, when he died of injuries to his hip. His wife was Sally Kneeland, cousin of John, of step-son of Samuel Abbott. Andover, John Kneeland bought the place from Joseph Dane, who moved to Willow , N.H. Kneeland, who was in possession for 30 or 40 years, leased it to Clark Holt, who had been promised the place by old Samuel. Moses Dane had it on shares 25 years, and George F. Holt and Wm. Abbott were there also.

Seth Chase was the son of John Chase and Anna Cochrane, daughter of James Cochrane and Salome Knowlton. They lived in the home near Haggetts Pond.

Joel Sanders who once lived in Andover near Squire Hobart Clark's, returned to Bradford after two years, and died there.

of ANDOVER

Timothy Sanders of Tewksbury, brother of Ziba, and son of Timothy, Sr., was first a blacksmith in the Vale. He bought a shop from the Ballardvale Co., and moved it to River street. in 1835. His brother Abiel was with him and David Blunt was a partner. Sanders sold to John Perkins and returned to Tewksbury.

1850,- Francis Sanders of Ballardvale , a cabinet maker, left for Boston.
He was also a wheelwright and was in Boston 1863. His sister married a Poland, who was his apprentice.

Sanders became SAUNDERS in Andover.

Phebe Foxcroft Abbott, daughter of Caleb Abbott and Lucy Lovejoy, born Feb. 8, 1797, was married in Andover, June 20, 1821, to Daniel Saunders, son of James Saunders and Elizabeth Little, born June 20, 1796 at Salem, N.H.

He lived also in Andover and Canada, and were here until the town of Lawrence was set off. They had : Daniel; Charles W.; Martha; Martha G. and Caleb.

Betsy Bullard's brother was Daniel <sup>S</sup>aunder's Bullard, so very likely the Daniel Saunders born 1732 was the ancestor.

SHEDD FAMILY

of Andover

Old Jacob Shedd bought from Mark Newman in 1818, the land where Roger's Brook crosses the turnpike. It was the Mayberry place later, and is now the site of the Barnard block. Sam Valpey took a mortgage in 1824. He probably built, at that time, the little shop so long held by Barnard, - a paint shop that stood between the Press and Dean's shop. Shedd sold a share in the Andover Bank building occupied by the bank and shops, at the time.

Hannah Shedd, widow of Jacob, was born Hannah Norwell.

West Parish Church records have a Silas Shedd and his sister, Hannah Brown Shedd, children of Silas Shedd and Polly Brown. He was born 1820 and Hannah was born 1824.

They lived in a house on Huckleberry Hill, as you go toward the pond, from George Dane's, or as you go west to the main road that crosses Blanchard's Plain-by the pond-beyond Evingston's.

Silas' parents were from Tewksbury. Silas, Sr., was the son of Peter Shedd, and was born in North Tewksbury, 1770. He died in Andover, Nov. 1856.

Jacob Shedd lived for a while on the Rand place, last owned by <sup>Mr.</sup> Farmer. He had an only son, Joel, whose family moved to Charlestown. Jacob built the barn and other buildings on Joel's homestead after Joel died.

Records at Chelmsford give :-

Samuel Shedd and wife Elizabeth, had a son Samuel, born June 30, 1690.

Daniel Shedd and Ruth More, had a daughter Abigail, born Jan. 3, 1678.

It is stressed that these procedures must be followed strictly to ensure consistency and accuracy across all records. Any deviations should be reported immediately to the relevant authorities.

The third part of the document discusses the role of the audit committee in overseeing the financial reporting process. It highlights the committee's responsibility for ensuring that all financial statements are prepared in accordance with the applicable accounting standards.

The committee is also responsible for monitoring the effectiveness of the internal controls and for identifying any areas where improvements can be made. This helps to strengthen the overall financial management of the organization.

The fourth part of the document provides a summary of the key findings and recommendations from the audit. It identifies the areas where the organization has performed well and where there are opportunities for improvement.

The recommendations are designed to be practical and actionable, providing clear guidance on how to address the identified issues. It is expected that these will be implemented as a matter of priority.

Dear Miss Abbott:-

In regard to the bells. I have always understood that the bell in our North Parish Church tower was a Paul Revere, and to make sure I have myself been in the tower to-day and looked at the bell: it is marked 'Revere & Son, Boston, 1806.'

It is also interesting that the bell in the tower of Stevens Mill, our old original mill here in North Andover, that calls our people to work, dismisses them at night, and rings the nine o'clock curfew, is marked 'Revere & Son, Boston, 1804.'

The Abbott Stevens who contributed to the ringing of the Easter church bells in Boston is our eldest son. He is a great great great grandson of Paul Revere. I have not time this morning to send you the Abbott descent from Paul Revere, but will gladly do so within a day or two as soon as I can get Mrs. Stevens to make it up for me.

I am always glad to hear from you along the line of the matters you mention in your letter, and would be glad at any time to give you any information that I can.

Yours truly,
Samuel D. Stevens.

(Extract from a letter to C.H.A. from Joseph Lowe Stevens:- )

Milton,
Oct.21,1907.

" My Dear Miss Abbott:-

Last week I passed a pleasant day in Salem, for much of which I am indebted to your kindness in writing me about the will of Elizabeth Stevens that you discovered there.

The probate official was most courteous in producing not the will book only but the precious document in its excellent preservation. A leaf containing much of the codicil seems to be missing from the book-and there appear to be a few minor discrepancies in the copying. Two witnesses additional appear in the codicil, Joshua Stevens and Joseph Parker, Joshua doubtless being her grand-son and son of John (2), the other, presumably a brother-in-law. Their penmanship is a long way from the best, and Joseph repudiates diphthongs.

The two Bradstreets are on both instruments and finely penned, " Anna" on each- but on the will-book written "Ann."

The official suggested the famous Anne as witness, to which I demurred, as she died in 1672, - this "Anna" or "Ann" having been Widow Price before marrying the co-signer and witness.

Elizabeth's signature on the will excels that of the codicil, but she gets 3 e's into her name, being one too many, and so does Joshua. ( I should like a bottle of the ink she used.) Clearly the writing of both will and codicil is not in her hand, nor did it look as if by Bradstreet, the will especially being in smaller script than would seem from his official writing on the sheet. Maybe by an office clerk-of course of the male persuasion, since a great scandal would have arisen had the Squire installed a Female clerk.

A less alluring errand last week was attendance on the funeral at Dorchester of a daughter of the deceased Gen. Isaac I. Stevens, a beautiful woman, born only 17 miles from my native Maine town. Death has been over-busy among those by the name of Stevens to whom I am allied-within the past few years. I hear that the fine estate of Moses may pass out of the family. He, you know, was owner of the Revolutionary soldier's diary. I wonder if it be possible that the Ingalls chart, which I have vainly tried to trace beyond Postmaster James, can have found its way into his pious care. Perhaps my zeal for its discovery may lead me into an inquiry of one of the sons-or the daughter-last at home.

Some day I may venture to remind Gen. Hazard Stevens that the admirable biography of his father, errs about Nathan, who was NOT Councillor, but CORNET, who died in 1717-8, ergo in our chronology, 1718, not 1717, who is buried, NOT ' under a broad free-stone slab', but beneath a slate gravestone that has preserved the inscription distinctly to this day. The " slab" is a few yards away from the father's grave and covers Benjamin. I have a strong impression that when there a great many years ago, I read ' Councillor ' or its abbreviation, on that slab- also, that when there on a certain hot Saturday, plus two years ago, I failed to see the title, and so wonder if the elements can have eaten it away meanwhile. Or was the intense heat blinding?

Another impression haunts me-viz- that in that very long ago I read on a small sunken stone, of softer texture than slate, that stood not so near John's as one would expect to find his wife's, certainly not so close as Nathan's, - the word 'Elizabeth', -- all else being weather-worn away. But I cannot recall seeing it since.

I do remember seeing in that summer of 1905 the slate stone of some male Stevens almost as near to John's as Nathan's, and wondering thereat, but at this moment the name refuses to come to mind, Peter- was it?

CORNET Stevens seems to have been a misunderstood man by posterity. Thus, he is much called 'Coroner', whether originally by Henry Ingalls, and so followed, or by careless copying, but in one way sure. More ludicrously 'Governor'. Four folk copied inscriptions on the old grave yard in October 1869, intended to be exact, and surely a laudable act. But transcribing them into a book for preservation, Mr. Appleton wrote 'GOVERNOR' for CORNET. With him the error must have happened, I fancy, for the word 'Cornet' is still very plain on the stone. But maybe the copyist wrote so illegibly as to mislead him. ....

Again thanking you for my Salem treat,
I remain
Yours sincerely,
Jos. L. Stevens."

The SUTTON FAMILY

of Andover

RICHARD SUTTON, proprietor or "subscriber" of Lancaster, is mentioned in 1653. He is said to have come to ANDOVER from Roxbury, remaining herefor only a few years, and moving on to Reading. Then later, he returned to Roxbury.

His first sale of land in Andover is recorded in a deed to Bradstreet, Sr., - of a home lot and house and 80 acres of meadow, 1658. Sutton's Plain is mentioned for the first time, and described as bordering on the Billerica line,--- pine barren. In 1663 a deed shows that Richard Sutton of Roxbury, husbandman, sells 8 acres to George Abbott, next neighbor, (once a Roxbury man)-upland in West Parish. George Abbott and Wm. Chandler were witnesses.

1664: An estate conveyed by Sutton/<sup>-called weaver,</sup> and wife, to George Abbott;- oxlands on west side Shawshin; plough lands, 35 acres, by Little Hope Brook, 18 acres lying on George Abbott's swamp or meadow lately purchased from the Town of Andover from Bradstreet and Woodbridge. Simon and John Bradstreet and Tom Chandler, witnesses.

1665. Roving animals caused much damage. A lawsuit of Simon Bradstreet vs. Dan Gage on account of swine. Fence viewers were Tom Johnson and Richard Sutton who testified that the fence was sufficient for all orderly cattle but ordinary fences would not keep out swine. Thereupon the law ordered that 10 of these knowing "critters" were all that could be owned by each man.

1664:- Bradstreet had a cause against Richard Sutton. Bradstreet's horses went across Sutton's land and he/<sup>struck and killed</sup> one of them, "intentional" said the charge. Sutton claimed it was not so. That one night he called the Bradstreet and Dane dogs to drive off the horses that were eating fodder on his property, and the dogs killed a mare, and he couldn't beat them off.

of ANDOVER

Andover chose Sutton for fence viewer next year, so he had a chance to get even with old Bradstreet. In another case, Gage testified for Bradstreet, so Sutton was doubtlessly glad to go back to Roxbury. Simon Bradstreet was a hard neighbor and despised inferiors.

Richard Sutton was the first WEAVER named in Andover, and would have built a fulling mill, if he had stayed. He was active in military service in the Indian Wars and in his advanced years, was, for his honorable service, exempt from further duty, by order of the General Court. He left no descendants here when he left. 200 years later, Eben Sutton, a direct descendant of Richard, came back to Andover.

William Sutton of Danvers, came here in 1826, with a mortgage on a woolen mill here owned by Samuel Ayer. Sutton was rich and active, and revived the making of woolen cloth, with power looms. He died in Danvers 1832, but his son Eben, who died 1864 and Wm., who died 1865, left estate to Gen. <sup>Eben</sup> Sutton of New York, who came to North Andover to reside and bought the Armstrong place. Sutton Mills is the name given to the village where his workers live, near his mill in the lower part of North Andover.

vol.5-1673: - A complaint was made on June 3, by Richard Sutton of Roxbury, against Moses Symonds and wife, Sarah, and daughter, Elizabeth.

Elizabeth had promised to marry Richard, but R. claims that her parents had prevented the match. Symonds is ordered to pay Richard 31bs. "for time wasted" and the court orders Richard and Elizabeth released from their engagement, unless they chose to make it up later.

SWAIN FAMILY

John Swain, who lived in Andover, 1775, was the son of John (5) Swain and his wife, Sara More, of Reading. John (6) was born May 2, 1751; he married Lois Walton, Nov. 25, 1774. In the Revolution, he saw service with Ebenezer Abbott. He joined South Church in 1777 and later went to North Church, where he was a deacon in 1791. He belonged to the Andover Co., of Militia, in 1775, with Jabez Haywood, and lived, I think, in one of the old Haywood estates near Jabez- near the North Reading line. His intentions to marry Lois were published in Andover, July 11, 1774, and the residence of both is given as Reading. ( She was called LOUIS on record.) She died Sept. 19, 1842. He died Aug. 24, 1815, at 64. They had:-
